Divine Mercy Sunday: A Day of Grace and Forgiveness

Divine Mercy Sunday is celebrated on the first Sunday after Easter. It commemorates the apparitions of Our Lord to Saint Faustina Kowalska, through whom He revealed His deep desire to pour out His mercy upon the whole world. In a time often marked by division and suffering, this feast reminds us of a powerful truth: God's mercy is limitless—offered to every soul, no matter our past. Jesus invites us not only to receive His mercy, but to trust in it completely.

Thought for the week.

All Relative! An old story! A family going home from mass and the wife said the church was really cold. The husband said the priest preached for far too long and made little sense. The wife commented on how out of tune the choir was and the husband said he couldn't hear the reader. The child in the back, put his head in between them, and said: "I thought it wasn't a bad show for 50cent"

HAVE A WONDERFULL WEEK
